

Encouraging Teachers to Encourage Students

Amber Nicole Castellanos

National University, the United States

Abstract

This Action Research Proposal seeks to answer the question, “What does current research suggest are the best "next steps" for educators in these post-pandemic times to counter the learning loss experienced during COVID-19 shutdown?” This question is relevant to both the author and the educational community because the answer would provide another tool for the improvement of classroom instruction. The author has included his connection to the topic, and literature review, and proposed a methodology.

keywords: Distance Learning, Pandemic, Teaching, Resources